Context API
VS
Redux Toolkit?

TechZeen
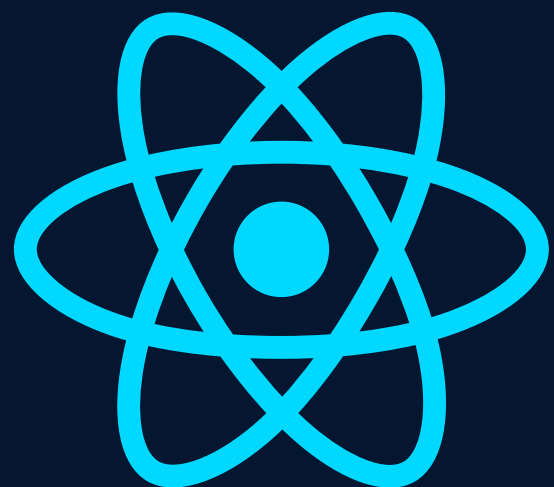

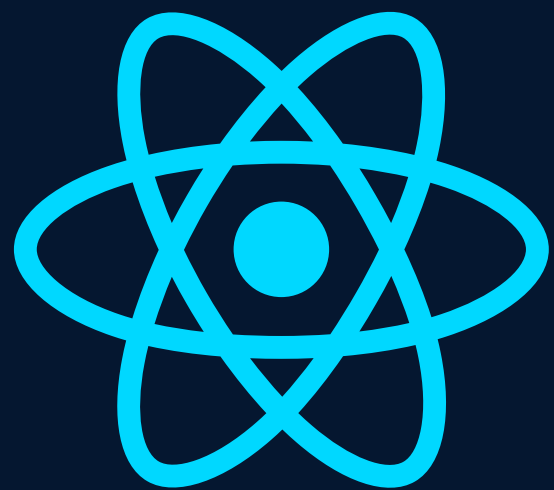

- Context API is a built-in feature of React, ideal for simpler projects with minimal state management.
- It allows you to wrap selective components where state is needed.
- Use Context API for small projects and simpler state needs

- Redux Toolkit is a third-party library designed for complex applications, offering a more scalable and structured approach by wrapping the entire application and providing advanced state management features.

- Use Redux Toolkit for larger, more complex projects.
